The Soviet Union states that it has dismantled all of the missile sites which it constructed in Cuba, and that it has removed from Cuba all of the missiles, forty-two in number, all of the IL-28 bombers, also forty-two in number, and all nuclear warheads, their launching apparatus and other components which it introduced into Cuba.

The Soviet Union, in cooperation with the United States arranged a procedure at sea whereby a substantial means of verification of the removal of all of the nuclear missiles and IL-28 bombers which the Soviet Union declared it had introduced into Cuba was afforded to the United States.

The Soviet Union has stated that it has dismantled all nuclear missile sites in Cuba which it ~~caused to be~~ erected or was in the course of erecting <sup>these</sup> and has removed from Cuba all such ~~missiles~~ <sup>missiles</sup> nuclear weapons which it introduced into Cuba, including components ~~or~~ and launching apparatus; and the Soviet Union has ~~already~~ <sup>so</sup> stated it has removed all the IL-28 bombers which it introduced into Cuba. In the case of the missiles and the bombers substantial verification was afforded the United States that the number of such missiles and the number of such bombers stated by the Soviet Union to have been introduced into Cuba by the Soviet Union - <sup>namely</sup> 42 missiles and 42 bombers - were in fact removed from Cuba by the Soviet Union.
